Annika Stott
Class of 2005

While travelling the world after university, Annika learnt about sustainability - balancing economic prosperity, a healthy environment and social justice. Annika studied at the Centre for Sustainability Leadership and since then has promoted all of this in her work, both in the UK and in Sydney. In 2013, she moved to Oxford and had the privilege to work with food waste experts. She learnt about changing people's behaviours to save food, money and reduce our environmental impact. Annika is inspired to raise awareness that wasting food really wastes so much more - labour, love, fuel, money, land and time. Annika is currently Sustainability Strategist for OzHarvest.
